

Eden HR Consulting was founded on the belief that expert HR advice should be accessible to any business. Today, our commitment to giving clients that high standard of support and guidance is just as solid. However, our services don't end there; we can also take care of the implementation of new processes and procedures - working with you for as long as you need us.

We like to work in partnership with our clients, which we believe makes for an honest and effective relationship. Although we remain independent, you can rely on us to act with discretion and integrity, always.

Established in 2005, we are based in Horsham, in West Sussex and work with businesses across the country.
